7 days · Beginner-friendly

Your 7-day plan

Day 1: Start plant-based

Swap one familiar meal for a plant-based option, such as porridge with soy drink or bread with hummus.

Day 2: Discover legumes

Include lentils, beans, chickpeas or peas. Canned legumes are convenient – rinse and use.

Day 3: Eat colourful and seasonal

Try at least three different vegetables or fruits. Frozen vegetables count too and save time.

Day 4: Plant protein

Try tofu, tempeh, seitan or soy yoghurt. Marinating, seasoning and pan-frying until crisp can make them delicious.

Day 5: Explore dairy alternatives

Try fortified plant drinks or yoghurts. Check especially for calcium; some plant drinks are also fortified with iodine and vitamin B12.

Day 6: Veganise a favourite

Adapt a favourite dish: chilli sin carne, vegetable curry, lentil Bolognese or vegetable pizza.

Day 7: Reflect and plan

What did you enjoy? What was easy? Plan three plant-based meals for next week and note your favourites.

Five delicious vegan recipes

Easy to prepare, satisfying and full of flavour – adjust quantities to appetite and number of servings.

Hearty · protein-rich

Chili sin carne

Ingredients

Kidney beans, black beans or corn, one can of chopped tomatoes, tomato sauce, bell pepper, onion, garlic, vegetable stock, cumin, paprika, chilli, salt and pepper. Serve with rice, cooked spelt as a wholesome rice alternative, and fresh herbs.

Method

Sauté the onion, garlic and bell pepper. First add the beans and corn and sauté for a few minutes. Only then add the canned chopped tomatoes and tomato sauce. Stir in the spices and a little vegetable stock, then simmer gently over low heat for up to 20 minutes. Season to taste and serve with rice or cooked spelt.

Pasta favourite

Tofu spaghetti Bolognese

Ingredients

Whole-wheat spaghetti, firm tofu, onion, carrot, garlic, tomato sauce, olive oil, Italian herbs, soy sauce, salt and pepper. Optional: nutritional yeast to finish.

Method

Crumble the tofu by hand and fry in olive oil until golden brown. Finely dice onion, carrot and garlic and sauté. Add tomato sauce, a splash of soy sauce and herbs; simmer for 15–20 minutes. Serve with cooked spaghetti.

Oven-baked · creamy

Baked sweet potato with filling

Ingredients

Sweet potatoes, vegan soy mince (rehydrated or prepared), chickpeas or black beans, spring onion, corn, bell pepper, lime juice, paprika, cumin, salt and pepper. For the vegan crème fraîche: unsweetened soy yoghurt or vegan crème fraîche, lemon juice, a little olive oil and salt.

Method

Pierce the sweet potatoes and bake at 200°C conventional heat for about 40–55 minutes, until tender. Prepare the vegan soy mince according to the packet instructions and briefly sauté it with beans or chickpeas, corn, bell pepper and spices. Split the sweet potatoes, add the filling and top with vegan crème fraîche mixed from soy yoghurt, lemon, oil and salt.

Crispy · customisable

Vegan pizza with tuna alternative or smoked tofu

Ingredients

Vegan pizza dough (optionally whole-wheat), tomato passata, oregano, vegan grated cheese (optional), red onion, capers and olives. Choose either plant-based vegan tuna or smoked tofu as topping, with a little lemon juice and fresh herbs.

Method

Roll out the dough and spread with seasoned tomato sauce. Top with onion, capers, olives and vegan tuna or diced smoked tofu. Bake according to the dough instructions – usually at 220–250°C – until the crust is crisp. Finish with lemon juice and herbs.

Stew · wholesome

Lentil and tomato stew with spelt

Ingredients

Red lentils or a mixed lentil blend, one can of chopped tomatoes, sweet potato, smoked tofu, carrot, courgette, broccoli, onion, garlic, vegetable stock, paprika, thyme, salt and pepper. Serve with spelt (spelt berries or spelt rice).

Method

Cook the spelt separately in its own pot according to the packet instructions. In the stew pot, sauté the onion, garlic and diced smoked tofu. Add the carrot and sweet potato and cook briefly. Then add the courgette and sauté it before adding the canned chopped tomatoes and vegetable stock. You can add the red lentils or mixed lentil blend directly to the stew and cook according to the packet instructions, or cook them separately in another pot and stir them in later. Red lentils usually take about 10–15 minutes, while a mixed blend may need longer. Sauté the broccoli separately and stir it into the stew at the end. Alternatively, add it with the other vegetables from the beginning and let it cook in the stew. Season to taste and serve with the separately cooked spelt.

Keep shopping simple

Oats, potatoes, whole grains, legumes, tofu, nuts, vegetables and fruit make a versatile foundation.

Build balanced meals

Combine vegetables or fruit with a protein source, satisfying carbohydrates and a fat source – for example lentils, rice, vegetables and tahini.

Remember B12

A reliable vitamin B12 source is essential in a vegan diet, usually through an appropriate supplement. A one-week challenge does not replace long-term planning.

Good to know

A balanced vegan diet requires some planning. A well-formulated vegan all-in-one supplement may help reduce potential nutrient gaps, depending on its ingredients and dosage, especially when food choices are not balanced or you are unsure about your intake. Pay particular attention to a reliable source of vitamin B12. In addition, an EPA/DHA algae oil, for example from Sunday Natural, can support the intake of long-chain omega-3 fatty acids. Supplements do not replace a balanced diet and do not automatically meet every individual need. Check the formulation and dosage; a qualified nutrition professional can help if you are unsure.
